

unserialize

```
graph LR; A[unserialize] --> B[__construct];
```

A diagram showing a call from the unserialize function to the __construct method. The unserialize function is represented by a white box with a black border, and the __construct method is represented by a gray box with a black border. A blue arrow points from the unserialize box to the __construct box.

__construct